Defends and Loses His Case-Newton All Broken Up Over Suit.

All Newton, from center to circumference, was excited yesterday over the result of the breach of promise case. Nothing else talked of. Dr. Geo. MacEiree was made to pay the jury $6,727 for dallying with the affections of a Philadelphia girl, Miss Lillian Walfersberger, - $6,500 with interest amounting to $227,50-all for her disappointment and humiliation.

Dr. MacElree is a prominent citizen of Newton. He is married to Miss Perry of that city, and the searching inquiry into his and his wife's private affairs set New-MacElree's case rested principally upon the claim that he broke off the engagement because Miss Wolfersberger inher ited a poxious disease-he was her physician-and because he did not think he had money enough to support her.

After all the testimony was in and the cross examination finished, the arguments were commenced and these were fierce: Bowman, for Miss Lillian, hit MacElree hard. He said.
"While the doctor was writing to the

"While the doctor was writing to the plaintiff expressing his great love for her he was running around over the country with Miss Perry. Went to Hutchinson and Emporia with her. Then he writes to his eastern sweetheart four days after his return from Emporia that he had just returned from a trip to the country and thanks her for her love displayed in the beautiful present which she had sent him. On the hypocrite! He told Lillian that his Oh the hypocrite! He told Lillian that his father would fix him up a home all right before he came west, but now on the 23rd of January, 1892, he writes that he can expect no outside nelp whatever. How is it now? He testifies that he receives assistance from the east and you know, gentle-men, from the evidence that he lives in a splendid house. What! not able to sup-

Joe Ady, the well known Kansas poli-tician, had MacEiree's case in hand. He shot this back at the plaintiff's attorneys: "I have been raised out in the west and know the chivalry and deep sympathy of the western nature. I say that there was something sacred about that little parlor at 4088 Spring Garden street, Philadelphia in spite of Mr. Adv's sneering remarks to the contrary. To that faithless villain youder the plaintiff had trusted the wealth of her love and upon him had poured fourth the treasures of her heart. He professing love to her up to the very last minute, sent that cruel lever without one word or note of warning Is it any wonder her mind totlered? Why did he do it? Because he could net afford to keep her. Great God, what a lie.
